

Sinclair Broadcasting has decided to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary two weeks before the presidential election. This is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair is obligated by law to serve the public interest. They mustn't be allowed to ignore that obligation. When Americans turn on a local news broadcast it's important that we see substantive stories about issues that matter rather than politically slanted propoganda disguised as breaking news.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them, including the license renewal process. Thank you.
